Effort to Get Money on a Judgment Against the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company-Trials, Convictions and Acquittals in the General Sessions.

In the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, before Judge Benedict, the case of Frank L. Tain-tor was called. Defendant is indicted for embezzling $400,000, the property of the Atlantic National Bank, of which establishment he had been cashier. The Assistant District Attorney said he was ready to proceed with the matter. Neither the defendant nor his counsel was present and the case was passed for the present.

John Foley appeared yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Benedict, and showed cause why he should not be fined $250 for on-attendance as a juror. He gave a satisfactory explanation and was excused for a week.

In the suit of Daniel Berrian against the city, in which it is charged that, through conspiracy with Wm. M. Tweed, as Commissioner of Public Works, and Wm. H. Cook, Deputy Superintendent of Repairs in the Croton Aqueduct Department, rob bery was perpetrated upon the city treasury, an important decision was given yesterday by Judge Van Vorst, in Special Term of the Court of Common Pleas. The points of the decision will be found in the report of the case given below.

The order to show cause why the Comptroller should not be punished for contempt of Court, for not complying with a peremptory mandamus, granted by Judge Pratt, directing payment of $44,000 to the Tenth National Bank for advances made to the New Court House Commissioners, came up for argument yesterday in Supreme Court, Chambers, before Judge Fancher. It was shown that a stay of proceedings had been granted in the case, and upon this Judge Fancher vacated the order to show cause. This will compel proceedings as to contempt de nova, if any further are taken in

An important decision was given yesterday, by Judge Robinson, of the Court of Common Pleas, touching the jurisdiction of the Court as to the accounting for a distribution of trust funds by assignees of insolvent debtors. ### MOVEMENTS OF THE TWEED REGIME.

Berrian's Little Bill-An Offset Put in by the Corporation Counsel-What Judge Van Vorst Thinks of It.

It will be a long time, probably, before in one way or another the name of William M. Tweed ceases to appear in proceedings in the courts. His name is mixed up in the well known suit of Daniel Berrian, brought against the city to recover money alleged to be due the latter for material furterials were furnished to the Croton Aqueduct Department, and the services performed were also for the same department, and this at the time William M. Tweed was Commissioner of Public Works. To Mr. Berrian's complaint in the pending action an answer was put in by Mr. E. Delafield Smith, Counsel to the Corporation, that Mr. Berrian had entered into a conspiracy with Detailed Smith, Counsel to the Corporation, that Mr. Berrian had entered into a conspiracy with William H. Cook, Deputy Superintendent of Repairs in the Croton Aqueduct Department, and William M. Tweed as Commissioner of Public Works, and that through certificates fraudulently signed by these two officials the city was delirauded out of $3,206 S3, this amount, as alleged, being paid in excess of what was legally due; which allegations, of course, are denied by Mr. Berrian, and the Corporation Counsel puts in the same as an offset to Mr. Berrian's claims in his present suit.

A multiplicity of papers have passed between the contestants, including answer to an answer and a demurrer. The demurrer was that the answer was insufficient to constitute a counter claim to the cause of action. There was a long argument upon this demurrer before Judge Van Vorst, holding Special Term of the Superior Court. Judge Van Vorst rendered yesterday his decision in the matter. It of course does not enter into the merits of the case, but simply decides a technical point, but one, though, of rather important character.

The following is that portion of Judge Van Vorst's opinion covering the chief point in the case:—"The defendant's counter claim, as plead, constitutes a tort. The wrong does not arise out of and is not connected with the claim set up in the claim. It is an independent cause of action, and for which the plaintiff is liable to arrest and imprisonment. It may be that the defendant could have set up his claim for the moneys unpaid to the plaintiff in such form as to waive the tort and such a recovery back of the moneys unpaid by way of counter claim on an implied contract and not for the money. His conclusion is that the demurrer is well taken. Judgment therm is ordered in favor of the plaintiff, with liberty to the defendant to answer his answer in twenty days on the usual terms.

JURISDICTION OF THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Distribution of Trust Funds by Assignees of Insolvent Debtors-Have We County Court !- Important Decision

by Judge Robinson.

A very important decision in reference to the jurisdiction of the Court of Common Pleas of this city to compel an accounting and distribution of trust funds by assignees of insolvent debtors was given yesterday by Judge Robinson, of the Court of Common Pleas. Owing to the peculiar wording of the statute of this State under which general assignments are made for the benefit of creditors, it has been questioned sometimes by members of the Bar, and even by a Judge of the Supreme Court, whether the Court of Common as could act under the statute. The question

Pleas could act under the statute. The question was a grave one, for if this Court had not jurisdiction no Court in the county of New York had, and assignees of insolvent debtors in this county could not be compelled to account under the provisions of the statute, atthough they could be compelled to do so in any other county of the State.

The matter came before Judge Robinson upon the petition of the Quassalek Woollen Mill Company, of Newburg, to compel Mr. C. P. Crosby, as assignee of Townsend, Baker & Co. to account. Messrs. King and Meyer appeared for the petitioner, and Messrs. Fullerton, Knox & Crosby for the assingee. The counsel for the assingee argued that the statute read that the County Judge had jurisdiction, and as there was no County Judge in the county of New York therefore no officer in the county had jurisdiction. Mr. King, of cousel for the petitioner, claimed that the County Judge.

Judge Robinson, in a lengthy opinion, sustained the views of the petitioner. The course of his argument was that the Court of Common Pleas for the city and county of New York is declared by the laws of the State to be the County Court of this city and county (Laws of 1821, page 64, and Laws of 1826, chapter 265), and the first Judge is called the First Judge of the County Court. It cannot be sup-posed that the Legislature intended to leave this city without the benefit of the act of 1860 in refercity without the benefit of the act of 1860 in reference to general assignments, considering that the city contains about one-third of the population of the State and has employed in it more capital subject to the operation of the statue than in all the rest of the State. The Court has exercised jurisdiction under the act for thirteen years, and the maintenance of the assignee's position would invalidate every assignment made in this country since 1860, when the act took effect. The Judge also held that the assignee, by fling his bond and obtaining the approval of a judge of this Court to the amount of the bond and the security offered, was estopped from denying the jurisdiction of the Court.

BUSINESS IN THE OTHER COURTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

The Clerk in Bankruptcy and the Records.

There is a book kept in the United States District Court in which is contained a list of bankrupts, voluntary and involuntary, filed from day to day. Ever since the Bankruptcy law went into operation in June, 1867, the representatives of the press, in the discharge of their duty, have had access to this book until within the past two or three weeks, when the condition of affairs in Wall street has led the public to look out carefully for developments in that quarter. Yesterday a reporter applied to the clerk in charge in the Bankruptcy Department for leave to examine the book in question, as has been his wont for several years past. The clerk replied—"You cannot see it. Sir. I am directed by the Clerk not to let the book be seen. If you desire to know about any particular case I will show you the papers." The Reporter observed—"I do not want to see any particular case. I desire to examine the list to see what petitions have been filed;" and after making this answer to the clerk in charge he retired from the office. We believe that the book to which we have referred is as much a public record as any document or paper in the County Clerk's or Register's office, and it it is not, we should like to know for what purpose it skept? We have hundreds of times seen reporters and lawyers examining this list of bankrupts, and we are quite at a loss to know the reason why an inspection of it is now kept from the reporters who, in asking to see it are not gratifying any idle curiosity, but acting in the interest of the great mercantile and commercial community of this city.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS-SPECIAL TERM. The Verdiet Against the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company. Before Judge Robinson.

Several months since James Lamb obtained a judgment for $100,000 against the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company on account of the losses sustained by the destruction of cotton at the burning of the company's depot at Pier No. 1 North River. Getting a judgment is one thing and getting the money is another. Since then the Camden and Amboy Railroad has been leased to the Pennsylvanis Railroad Company for $2,000,000 a year. It is alleged that $500,000, being one quarter's rent, is now on deposit in the Board of Commerce, and that the same is being used by the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company to pay two and a-half percent dividend to the stockholders. Mr. Lamb desires to attach this fund on account of the aforementioned judgment. The cashier states that the funds belong to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and that the money is being paid out by its checks. Application was made yesterday for an order directing the cashier to appear and give his testimony as to the facts. Judge Robinson took the papers, reserving his decision.

COURT OF SESSIONS.

The City Treasury Frauds-Sprague's Trial Postponed.

Before Judge Moore. The case of Cortland A. Sprague, the ex-City Treasurer, who is indicted on the charge of maifeasance in office, was called yesterday morning. The court room was crowded by spectators, who expected that the trial would proceed. As soon as expected that the trial would proceed. As soon as the case was called

Mr. D. P. Barnard, counsel for the defence, arose and said:—If the Court please, in the matter of Cortland A. Sprague, who pleaded to an indictment a fortnight ago to-morrow, and which was set down for trial to-day, I would state that I have made every exertion in my power that we should be ready this morning. This has been a matter involving an indictment of ninety counts and necessarily a great amount of labor. I hast week involving an indictment of ninety counts and necessarily a great amount of labor. I last week stipulated with the District Attorney that certain evidence, called secondary evidence, should be given by Mr. Warren. Having made this stipulation I called on Mr. Warren and engaged with him to furnish the information needed by us. Last Thursday morning I was much surprised by the announcement of a large detaication in the office of the State Treasurer, and learned that Mr. Warren had been sent for to make an investigation. That gentleman is now in Albany, and as he has not yet completed the duties entrusted to him by me, and has, besides, a number of my papers in his possession, I am on that account unprepared to try the case-this morning, and must ask for an adjournment.

his possession, I am on that account unprepared to try the case-this morning, and must ask for an adjournment.

District Attorney Britton said:—I have nothing to say in opposition to what has been said. The statements are correct. Having been informed a day or two since of the present state of affairs, I came here this morning expecting this application, and shall make no opposition to it. I do not propose to force any one to trial without affording a reasonable time for preparation. The only thing I can ask is that the Court will set the case down for as early a day next term as possible.

Judge Moore granted the motion for postponement and remarked:—This is a case which must necessarily invoive long and complicated action, the indictment being one of unusual size. Connsel for the defence ought to have a reasonable time for preparation. It is not a case which can be got ready in a day or two. There must be an examination of long accounts extending over years. The absence of Mr. Warren on public duties is a fair reason for postponement. If there is no objection to the day I will name the loth of November—the second Monday of the November term—and counse; will understand that it is noticed for that day.

The counsel then left the court room and the majority of the spectators dispersed.

The following prisoners pleaded guilty yesterday and were sentenced to the terms stated:—
August Buckhardt, grand larceny; two years in the Penitentiary.
Alfred St. Clair, forgery in the fourth degree;

Same sentence.
William Whitman, false pretences; one day in jail.

George Clark, charged with burglary, was acquitted.

These are still days of mourning in Wall street. To those who have been accustomed to regard its markets as parts of the active, tireless, pulsating heart of our great financial system it is strange to see that system so surely recovering from recent shocks while the functional derangement in its palpitating centre continues. Yet such is the case. Outside of Wall street the country seems to have shaken off the incubus of panic and distrust that sent a shudder through the nation at one time and appeared the precursor of dire disaster. The Stock Exchange really in the present situation of affairs does not represent the country, either as a thermometer or barometer, which it once did, of existing or tending commercial conditions, but is sufficiently accurate to show the condition of the railroads of the United States in the relation of their nominal stock value with their bonded and general indebtedness to their actual cost. It is important as exhibiting

A SUM TOTAL OF OVER TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS THAT MAY BE PLACED TO THE ACCOUNT OF WATERD STOCK.

For, inasmuch as the bonded and other debts constitute a lien upon the roads, the stockholders being the owners, the actual interest of the latter is only the excess of the cost over such indebtedness, just as the interest which any real estate owner whose property is mortgaged has in such property is its value over and above the amount of the mortgage. This value is, of course, variable, based upon the income that may be derived from it; and so is railroad property increased in value by increased capacity for earning; but, as in the case of the proper rental value of the real property, this is determined in the open market, where no exceptional conditions of supply and demand exist, but only a fair return is sought for, by its estimated value, free of all encumbrances, the interest on the mortgage to be borne by the lesser; so also in the case of railroad property should the burden of its indebtedness be borne by the stockholders, the owners thereof, and the interest account substracted from the dividend account, and not assessed upon shippers in the form of exorbitant freight charges. This is what constitutes extortion, and is justly complained of by the farmers of the West, but for whose necessities no such iniquitous management could be sustained. The proper relation in this connection between reight charges, interest account and dividends to stockholders, to bring this vexed question wholly within the range of

The proper relation in this connection between freight charges, interest account and dividends to stockholders, to bring this vexed question wholly within the range of

And a just medium as between shipper and carrier is as follows:—The apportionment of freight charges (we include in the phrase all traffic, that is passengers as well as freight), so that the net earnings may be sufficient to pay the interest on the general indebtedness, provide for a sinking fund and a fair and reasonable dividend on an amount of stock equal to the difference between such debt and the cost of the road and equipment, to be distributed pro rata upon the nominal stock. This would render innocuous, so far as shippers are concerned, the practice of watering stock insomuch that watered stock stock would be then at the expense of the stocknoiders, and would remove the temptation to so water stock. In the departure from true principles of economic administration and honest direction, as between the people who granted these franchises and the railroads that enjoy them, do we find a very sufficient explanation of the prolonged dulness and weakness on the Stock Exchange as the result of a panic so circumscribed in its effects.

of the day was the listless feeling of demoralization that seemed to settle upon the stock market when it was announced early in the day that, owing to the land lines on this side being down, communication with London was interrupted. There being no leaders in the market here and no "cue" from "the prompt side," everybody seemed at a loss what to do, and, as the safest thing under the circumstances, did nothing. Laster in the day thus weak, facile feeling among operators found its expression in a general decline, the market leaving off at the lowest figures of the day. The subject of TIRE RESUMPTION OF CURRENCY PAYMENTS continues to form food for discussion, and, it is pretty confidently expected, will be effected during the current week. There are many pressing reasons for the banks to strain a point to accomplish three months, without specification of collateral, at 6 7-16 per cent, or 9-16 less than the bank rate.

yesterday was a quiet day, owing to the cause above noted. The demand for wheat was only moderate, with holders firm for spring on a limited supply. Flour was dull with a fair demand for low grades. Good shipping extras were in demand and scarce.

THE FEATURES OF THE MONETARY SITUATION were regarded as favorable to commercial dealings, money closing at 7 per cent. In the discount market there was a better inquiry reported, though best names command 16 to 18 per cent. Bank checks were at a nominal discount of ½ a ½ per cent. A firmer feeling in respect to the gold premium, which advanced to 108½, closing at 108½ a 108½ a 108½ a 108½ a 108½ for sixty days' sterling and 107½ a 107½ for short sight.

REPORTED PAILURE.

The failure of Kimber, Vivian & Co., of London, was reported early in the day, with liabilities ranging all the way from £760,000 to £1,000,000. Later in the day cable advices fixed the liabilities at 236,000 and the assets at £10,000. The firm is said to have been largely interested on the short side of the American market, but was unable to respond. A sharp decline in Pennsylvania in Philadelphia caused the report of a failure there which was subsequently dented.
